

In Venice Topless idea hits bottom

By Valerie Evenden

VENICE — Rumors circulating around Venice that a Brooklyn night club might seek to set up business in Venice came out in the open at Tuesday night's meeting of the City Council.

While city officials from other area communities were monitoring some close primary election returns, Venice aldermen were hearing words like topless and bottomless.

MAYOR TYRONE ECHOLS stressed, "There are no liquor licenses available and there are no plans to issue any."

"Before Roxy's opened in Brooklyn, they came here and asked, 'I turned it down flat. This (rumor) makes me think that all of my efforts have been fruitless,'" the mayor said.

"We stopped a cut-rate liquor store, a legitimate business, from opening and then I heard yesterday about a topless bar here."

"I don't see how you can stop a business, but it seems to me that kind of business couldn't operate without a liquor license," Echols added.

GRANITE CITY — District 9 and Belleville Area College may terminate a 1985 agreement that obligated BAC to provide District 9 auto maintenance classes at the Granite City Campus.

When BAC purchased North High School in 1985, it agreed to teach high school auto maintenance classes at the facility for five years.

According to terms of the agreement, money spent on the class and shop facilities was not to exceed $250,000.

BOTH DISTRICTS are interested in working out some form of compromise. BAC trustees met in executive session for 35 minutes March 19 to discuss the agreement. They took no official action other than to direct Chancellor Bruce Wissore to continue negotiations.

Wissore would not confirm the details of the agreement.

"A CASH SETTLEMENT in lieu of services is always a possibility," Wissore said.

"We're looking at ways to get closer to the high school students that we're serving."

"We want to do the right thing for the high school and the college," he said.

The only facility available for the shop is currently occupied by the BAC avionics department.

Sharing the shop facility prompted security concerns at both institutions.

Use of the GCC facility would have meant busing students from the high school. District 9 estimates busing could cost the district $5,800 annually.

AUTO SHOP STUDENTS would be forced to schedule study halls and home room periods before and after class due to transportation time.

Currently, cars cannot be pulled inside out of the weather at the high school shop, said Principal Gilbert Walmsley.

The school district would like to build a shop on the high school campus, at 3101 Madison Ave. School officials hope the cash received from BAC could be used to erect the structure.

The BAC counselor would work within District 9 to help students select college programs best suited for them and not simply recruit for the college, Wissore said.

"Our mission is to best serve the Tri-Cities' educational needs," he said.

Operation Snowball: Keeping 'straight kids straight'

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — A snowball starts out small and gets bigger by adding more snow.

It's the same concept with Operation Snowball, except they use people instead of snow.

OPERATION SNOWBALL is a program that gives young people an "alternative high" from drugs and alcohol. The program of group participation and peer-to-peer relationships teaches "if I have a positive impact on you, you can have it on someone else."

The effect — it snowballs.

Operation Snowball held a day-long workshop March 15 at

Sunday focus

Granite City High School, that was attended by 103 young people.

"IT'S A PROGRAM geared to keep straight kids straight," said Mary Gompers, local chairman and director of Operation Snowball. "We teach them to use positive peer pressure to keep their friends straight. It's a teens helping teens concept."

The all-day program featured presentations on chemical dependency, interpersonal relationships, depression, suicide and self-esteem.

Each presentation was followed by small group sessions, lead by an adult, for a time of reflection and discussion.

"IT GIVES THEM a chance to bring out their thoughts and feelings of what has been said," Gompers said.

The day concluded with an alternative high — a dance.

"The kids will walk away with a better attitude about themselves," Gompers said. "They will find out that they can have a good time without getting high or drunk."

For the participants in the day-long workshop, the things they experienced were better than any chemical high.

"I'VE GAINED a lot of friendships and experienced a lot of close relationships," said Scott Eaker, 17. "I also learned a lot of what drugs and alcohol can do to your body."

His participation in Operation Snowball received varied reactions from his friends.

"Some look down at me because I don't party," Eaker said, "and some look up at me because I stay away from it."

HAS GIVEN me self-confidence, self-esteem and self-respect," said Stacey Pacewicz, 18. When her friends ask her to take drugs, Pacewicz said she has a light-hearted way of telling them no.

"I joke around with them and say, 'I'm so high on life that I took drugs I would O.D. (overdose),'"

SHE'S VERY SERIOUS; though, when it comes to the problem of teenage chemical dependency.

"It's become that if you don't use it, you're socially unacceptable," she said. "It has given me a sense of accomplishment and self-esteem that I haven't had before," said Paula Green, 21.

LIKE THE OTHERS at the workshop, she too is trying to have a positive influence on her friends who are taking drugs or alcohol. Through these friends, she has made serious observations about drug and alcohol usage among teenagers.

"They need something to keep them going at first," she said, "but after they get addicted they don't need a reason any more."

Operation Snowball was started in 1977 by a group of teenagers. Workshops started in Granite City four years ago.

THIS YEAR, 75 percent of the 103 who attended are students at Granite City High School. Only 9 of the 93 teens who attended last year were from Granite City.

Most of the adults who participated were also from Granite City, including a former city alderman and a present alderwoman.

"I was head of the fire and police commission for four years and I saw what was going on with the drugs," said Warren Decatur, a former 4th Ward alderman who is now with Operation Snowball.

NOW 68, Decatur remembered his youth and compared it with today's.

"In those days, we didn't have easy access to drugs and liquor," he said. "Today it is so prevalent and the pressure is so high."

"It lasted 13 and a half hours and I learned something every hour," said 6th Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker. "I'm ready for another one."

WORKING with teenagers instead of council members was difficult, Whitaker said, but she learned to adjust.

"I had 14 kids in my group and I was afraid at first," she said, "but the longer we were together the closer we got."

While the teens were learning about drugs and alcohol, Whitaker learned one of the reasons why many start to use it.

"They have a lot of questions and they want someone to answer them without harping on them," she said. "They just want a little love, time and understanding."

Opportunity key to merger plan

By Valerie Evenden
and Donna Kimbro

"Maximum educational opportunity for all students is the key factor in any proposed merger of school districts," said Stefan Krehniak, an education professor at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville.

Krehniak was speaking to more than 125 Madison and Venice residents attending Wednesday's public hearing of the Madison County School Reorganization Committee.

THE EDUCATOR prepared the proposed consolidation plan for the Madison and Venice school districts and serves as consultant to the committee.

"Is a merger in the best interest of residents and the welfare of the children? Is the maximum educational opportunity being provided by my district? These are questions you should ask yourself," Krehniak said.

Many questions from the audience, however, took a different path.

"WHAT IMPACT CAN this hearing have on the committee's final plan submitted to the state?" Ed Salmond, an Eagle Park resident, asked.

The committee will take into consideration all views expressed at the meeting, Harold E. Briggs, Madison County regional superintendent of schools, replied.

But he cautioned that the audience reflected only a small segment of the population. "If those people were concerned, they'd be here tonight," a man quickly replied.

MANY TESTIFYING, including a Madison teacher and a Venice teacher who lives in Madison, were concerned about building up and overcrowded classrooms in the two districts combined.

"Give us quality standards and the materials to work with and we'll give you quality education," said Virginia Washington, a teacher at Blair School in Madison.

At one time, she had 52 pupils in her classroom, the teacher said. She now has about 20.

"If you want quality education then give us quality standards to work with, small class sizes and more materials," she added.

SCHOOL BUILDINGS to be utilized in the event of a merger would be the responsibility of a new Board of Education. Members would be elected by voters in both districts to administer any new combined district, the gathering was told.

"I wouldn't want my kids to be bused," a Madison mother said.

The possibility of increased taxes for Madison residents and a reduction in the same taxes for Venice residents brought loud negative murmurs from the audience, consisting mainly of Madison residents.

"A LOT OF PEOPLE in Madison are on fixed incomes and all are opposed to any tax hike," an older man said.

Some asking questions apparently believed the reorganization committee could force the issue of a merger.

"Our job is not to force anything down your throats. A hearing is to try to find out what you people want. What is best for the children, not what is best for the school board," explained Robert Mull of Bethalto, committee secretary.

"If you don't want this (merger) let us know and it will save us a lot

Hopalong still fights bad guys

A feeling of déjà vu is unavoidable in the expanding controversy between the Madison County Transit District and the Bi-State Development Agency.

It is not the first time Madison County Democrats "put on white hats" and assailed supposedly dark-hatted officials whose sins included (a) residing in Missouri and (b) gaining governmental power through state appointments rather than election by the people.

When Venice leaders embarked on their ultimately successful effort to buy the McKinley Bridge from Illinois Terminal Railroad a few decades ago, they regarded Bi-State as their chief rival. A verbal war was launched to make that agency seem somewhat sinister and unrepresentative.

From its beginning in the post-World War II era, Bi-State has been guided by a 10-member board, five from each state.

But its headquarters were situated in the "wild west" — St. Louis. And the experience, knowledge and energy of some west-of-the-river commissioners was so great they were often described as dominating the agency. Not only were there Missourians in influential Bi-State posts, but some of them — can you believe it? — were actually Republicans!

Bi-State survived without buying any toll bridges, but the bridges may not survive. Most of them have become "white elephants" due to tough competition from free, newer interstate bridges.

Bi-State's varied roles include running the metropolitan bus system, into which were merged such past Quad-City Area enterprises as Nameoki Transit and Community Coach. It also assumed planning functions, later sharing some of these tasks with the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council. The latter entity, the "council of governments," includes elected officials, in contrast to Bi-State. This recital of duties may be justified by the present bus dispute, which could grow in intensity in the future as Madison County buys less and less bus service from those "evil westerners" and shifts more routes to the Agency for Community Transit (ACT).

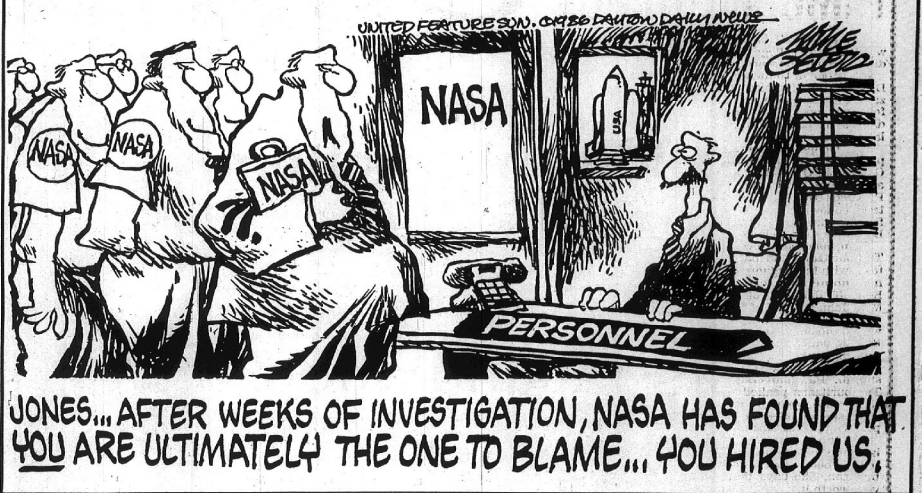

ACT may be a better approach, at least for part of the spectrum of mass transportation. Its concept of lower cost, smaller vehicles and more flexible routes makes considerable sense.

Whether the changeover should be total, ending Bi-State service here, we don't yet know. (The initial ACT idea involved only services to the poor, handicapped and elderly and provision of in-county shuttle runs.) But it is interesting to note how the anti-Bi-State rhetoric has escalated on more, particularly since the agency hired a veteran executive director at six-figure yearly pay. Bi-State has been accused of insulting the public and disregarding its mission; it says it hired the best in order to serve citizens better.

Beyond the propaganda "gunfight," we think the issue should not be "us vs. them," Illinois vs. Missouri. Bi-State has a Granite City chairman and he is not the first Granite City to hold that office. Certainly, both the individuals have watched out for Illinois interests, as have many other commissioners over the years.

That fact doesn't make the agency perfect, but we would prefer to see the discussions — bus vs. van, precise vs. flexible routes, etc. — generate more light and less heat.

As in old western movies, when the dust of the battle has subsided, we may be able to figure out who are the heroes and who are the villains. But at the moment, we're not yet ready to put boot into stirrup and leap to such conclusions.

Army tank has a record of mishaps

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The Army's safety experts must sometimes get the feeling they're compiling material for Beetle Bailey.

Consider these mishaps recorded between 1981 and 1985 concerning the new Abrams M-1 tank. It's easy to imagine General Halttrack looking dazed and whimpering: "Now what?" as he views the calamities described in the reports. For example:

"The driver was instructed to turn left by the tank commander, however, he turned right, causing the M-1 tank to go over a 20-foot embankment. The tank then rolled over twice, landing on its track."

"In order for photographers to take some pictures near water," an oblique tanker drove his M-1 a little too close to the edge of a lake. "The left side of the tank slid into the lake, submerging approximately one-half of the vehicle." The photographers were presumably delighted.

An M-1 driver tumbled down an Autobahn in West Germany, misjudged his tank's width and side-swiped a bus.

An M-1 evidently being driven by a hot rodder "spun out" on an Autobahn and ripped up a section of guardrail before it was brought under control.

The M-1 driver's seat is built along the lines of a reclining lounge chair, to accommodate the tank's admirably low profile. But it's evidently too comfortable. The driver is almost lying on his back, and after long periods on the road, drivers often fall asleep at the wheel and are jarred awake only when the vehicle collides with a tree or ditch.

Not all the accidents reviewed by our associate Donald Goldberg were caused by laughter.

The braking system isn't always up to the herculean job of keeping the huge M-1 stationary when it's parked. And since it takes "a significant period of time" to restart the engines, there's little the driver can do if the tank starts to slide downhill. One driver could only leap for his life. "The vehicle continued down a very forested hill through a fence until it crashed into a building in the ammo holding area. The building contained assorted types of 155mm projectiles, the unclear report says whether the ammo went up from the impact.

One frequent mishap involves the knee-level switch opening and closing the ammunition compartment. The switch leaves the loader's hands free, but can cause severe bruises if it is activated accidentally during a particularly jolting ride. And at least one loader unwittingly tried to stop the door from closing automatically by grabbing it. "The weight of the door was too much and it severed the fingers prior to stopping," the safety report noted.

So far at least, the M-1, named after Gen. Creighton Abrams, former Army chief of staff and Vietnam commander, has been associated with three accidental deaths. None were the fault of the tank's design. In one instance, for example, an allegedly drunk driver managed to get in the path of an oncoming M-1.

UNDER THE DOME: President Reagan's foreign policy pitchmen have been scouring Capitol Hill in search of support for their $100 million aid plan for the Nicaraguan contras, and they probably thought they had a sympathetic ear when they spoke to Sen. Edward Zorinsky, the Nebraska Democrat is unpredictable but generally conservative, and he listened politely to the White House spiel. His response, however, was not what the Reagan salesmen wanted to hear. Said Zorinsky: "Gentlemen, you cannot rent an army. You cannot buy loyalty. You cannot purchase friends."

NAGGING SUSPICIONS: Members of horse meat suspect that members of Congress from beef-producing states are conspiring to deprive Americans of their right to eat derby losers. The horseless hucksters told us they want to sell their meat to military bases as a first step to mass marketing. They argue that "horse meat is cheaper and healthier than beef because it is leaner. They also say it is tastier. We'll take their word on that."

TRACES OF DECADENCE: Over the past seven years, Iran's Ayatollah Khomeini and his fanatic followers have gone all out to purge their country of Western influence, but some strange vestiges of heathenism remain. In downtown Tehran, for example, there are fast food outlets bearing the McDonald's and Kentucky Fried Chicken logos. They are now run by Iranians.

TERMINAL DEBATE: For more than a decade, video display terminals have stirred controversy over their potential health hazards. The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health has proposed a study to settle the matter, but the White House Budget Office has blocked it, on the grounds it is flawed. Our sources say it's more likely that the $360,000 cost upset the budget chief.

NOISY NEIGHBORHOOD: The Navy has resumed practice bombing at its Fallon, Nev., air station, and some of the residents have taken their complaints of building damage and ruptured water lines. But the Navy has brushed off all complaints and is even planning a new $17 million runway at the facility.

Offices should have 'public hours'

Why is it that government offices, service-oriented businesses, including banks and other lending institutions, and other businesses and offices providing vital services are only open during the "9 to 5" hours Mondays through Fridays, the same time period most of us are at work?

Retail stores have seen this need for some time and are open late to accommodate the public. Even the local grocery stores have reacted to the need for later hours and some have recently lengthened their hours to midnight, despite already being open to 8 or 9 every night. Some have also extended their Sunday hours to afford their customers every chance to shop in their store.

This seems like good business practice to me, but why haven't other businesses and the government offices jumped on the bandwagon?

There are some lending institutions with late Friday hours and limited office hours on Saturday mornings, but if you operate an office or business and want customers, why not make it as easy as possible for people to be able to use the services you offer?

Some of the local banks have also installed machine-type banking facilities in Granite City and at least one facility has been located in Madison, making most banking services available to their customers virtually 24 hours per day, but these machines have their limits, too.

The time has come when our society must realize that services should be made readily available for those who use or need those services. Many of the area's workforce are now unable to get to "9 to 5" offices.

To provide these vital services to the public at reasonable hours and days would not necessarily mean radical schedule changes for the personnel who staff these offices and businesses.

Merely overlapping the hours of workers could remedy the situation in most instances.

Some people prefer to begin work at noon rather than at 8 or 9 in the morning, so the unusual shift would be welcomed. Of course, they would have to work till 8 or 9 in the evening, but there are plenty of "night people" who wouldn't mind this kind of schedule.

Late shifts could also be rotated among the office personnel, if necessary.

It would be great to see government offices and other service-oriented offices experiment with some late hours, even if it would be on a limited basis to determine if the additional hours are really needed.

The secretary of state's local drivers license examining station already provides its services to the public on Saturdays, affording many more people the opportunity to renew their licenses without the need to take off work.

Of course, the trade-off for this convenience is the office is closed on Mondays, but this system is far superior to how similar offices now operate.

Maybe the Tuesday through Saturday work week is a viable answer to the dilemma. Again, the entire office staffs would not necessarily have to work on Saturday, as some offices would have to remain open on Mondays for various reasons.

The next time you want to get a copy of your birth certificate, or buy a city sticker for your car, or even pay your sewer bill in person, think about the person who works to 5. How is he or she supposed to do these things while at work?

Letters Policy

The Press-Record/Journal welcomes letters to the editor. Names, addresses and telephone numbers must accompany all letters.

Letters which are libelous or not in good taste will be rejected. Shorter letters will be given preferences as will typed letters.

Names will be withheld from publication only if there are compelling reasons. We reserve the right to edit or reject any letter.

Anniversary for Sunday newspaper

One year later, we're producing a healthy Sunday newspaper. The promise at the outset of the Press-Record/Journal was that we would produce a news product combining the "best of both worlds."

And so we have. From a news standpoint, the Journal needed better news coverage. The news product was good, but relied too heavily, perhaps, on feature items and not enough emphasis was placed on hard news and news of record such as obituaries.

Again from a news standpoint, what the Press-Record needed was human interest content. Though producing award-winning news, stories about government left little room for stories about people and their lifestyles.

Combining hard news with human interest content has resulted in what we believe is the more balanced newspapers being produced today by the staff.

We zealously pursue news leads, as stories of the past year have shown: two dead in steel plant mishap, court stops abortion protesters, election coverage, police coverage, and so on.

Without taking anything from the news, we have added stories of human interest: Father Edwin Arentson's fight against abortion, the development of Phoenix Crisis Center Inc., we were first in the metro-area with a series on the insurance crisis, we brought you the fears of persons hiding out after a murder, and so on.

Though for a year we've produced a top-quality Sunday newspaper in Granite City, we're not resting on our laurels in past performance.

As the editor said to the reporter who was bragging about the story he wrote that morning, "What are you doing for me this afternoon?" "Both worlds" are one now and as we progress into the second year of the Press-Record/Journal, the staff looks forward to making this paper one that lives up to the slogan: "We're all about you."

Tamburitizens perform Wednesday

Norma Belcoff is dancing her way through college — and will dance around the world next year. She is one of 40 members of the Duquesne University Tamburitizens, an auditioned company performing folk music, songs and dances in 12 Eastern European languages.

The troupe will perform at 7 p.m. Wednesday, March 26, in the Granite City High School auditorium, 3101 Madison Ave. Proceeds from the event will go to an endowment scholarship fund for the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

"I'm honored to be part of the Tamburitizens and happy to perform with this organization before my hometown crowd," said Belcoff, daughter of Mayor and Mrs. John Belcoff of Madison.

The performance is a pageant of varied music, songs and dances in 12 languages, with performers wearing authentic costumes. Belcoff's interest in the Pittsburgh, Pa., university and the Tamburitizens peaked during her sophomore year in high school when she attended the ensemble's performance in Chicago.

Belcoff, of Macedonian heritage, twice auditioned for the troupe before becoming a Tamburitizen. She says the wait was well worth it.

"When the curtain goes up, I'm proud and honored that what I'm doing is making people happy," added Belcoff, a junior accounting major at Duquesne.

The Duquesne Tamburitizens schedule 110 performances during the year throughout the United States. They recently appeared at the Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, Washington, D.C.

Next year, the 50th anniversary of the troupe's founding, the Tamburitizens will appear at the World's Fair and will tour 27 foreign countries.

The hectic pace means studying and spending many nights riding a bus but it also leads to some close friendships, Belcoff said.

"I've experienced a new life after becoming a Tamburitizen," she said. "It's a more disciplined way of life. I've learned more responsibilities and how to communicate better with people.

"It's also been a way for me to get an education," Tamburitizens strive for excellence in performance and for excellence in education," she added.

The Tamburitizens season starts in July when the show is choreographed during a three-week camp in Wisconsin. The following two weeks are spent refining the act during a tour through Wisconsin and Minnesota. The concert is brought to this community by the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College in conjunction with a citizens advisory committee that contacted local businesses and residents for sponsorship of the event.

Concert goers will have an opportunity to sing and dance with members of the troupe at a reception following the performance at the Croatian Home, 1000 Madison Ave., Madison.

Advance tickets for the performance are recommended. For ticket information, Rosanna Herren or Sharon Owca may be called at GCC, 931-0600.

16 teachers get dismissal notices

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Sixteen Venice teachers were scheduled to receive letters of honorable dismissal this week.

A public hearing was held March 13 prior to a resolution being adopted calling for the action. Such measures are taken each year by the district because of the uncertainty of continued federal and/or state funding.

THE NOTICES were to be sent this week by registered mail or hand-delivered by Superintendent of Schools Robert N. Vickers.

Only 14 faculty members were expected to be affected this year, it was announced at an earlier meeting.

Ten certified teachers from Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, the adult vocational-education school, and six Venice Grade School teachers are among those getting the dismissal letters, Vickers said.

THOSE at the grade school include the beginning teachers and three other teachers whose job status would be affected if the Venice-Lincoln Center should close for lack of funds, he explained.

VLTC is financed with federal and state funds and administered by the Venice School District. No local taxes go directly to the center.

Most of the teachers now staffing the adult school have sufficient seniority to resume teaching in the public schools should the present level of funding be severely cut by federal and state agencies or current programs be curtailed.

TEACHERS being honorably dismissed have up to 17 years of service with the Venice School District, Vickers said.

Reporting on the adult center's present financial picture, Administrator Peter Ponce said, "As of the end of February, we are not in 'the red' and we are generating funds to meet our full budget."

Ponce added a cautionary note, however. "But we still have March, April and May to go. Probably we will know in mid-June what our allocation will be for next year."

AN EVALUATION TEAM assessing program quality visited the Venice-Lincoln Center March 4 and 5 and gave the facility four commendations, Ponce informed the board.

"Generally, they were pretty happy about it (the program) in their verbal report," he said. An official written report shortly will be received.

"The team commended the superintendent of schools and Board of Education for providing such a good facility and a much-needed service to this community and other communities.

"THEY ALSO COMMENDED the staff for its dedication and approval of the open entry, open exit format," Ponce said.

Cooperation between the VLTC staff and about 50 other agencies also was cited by the evaluators who suggested adding a job placement person to the staff.

"You are a man who wears many hats and you do a fine job," Board President Wilbert Glasper said. "We want to thank you for a job well done."

Glasper also expressed appreciation to the Press-Record/Journal sports people for their fine coverage during the basketball season.

"We've always been proud of our boys (Venice High School basketball team) every year, but we are especially proud of them this year," the board president said.

The event will begin at noon in the field directly in back of the Long Lake Fire Station.

Youngsters will hunt for more than 1,100 brightly colored plastic eggs filled with candy. A special attraction of the day will be a visit by the Easter Bunny, a club spokesman said.

Additional caution sign approved by city

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Pedestrian problems on Madison Avenue near Granite City High School could be reduced by action taken by the City Council Tuesday night.

Another caution sign will be placed on Madison Avenue south of Payless. Shoosources to tell motorists of the crossing area near the store. Motorists come too long to the existing caution signs for them to be effective, said 4th Ward Alderwoman Sharon Perjak. The council approved her motion for the another sign.

"The signs that are up there are just too close," Perjak said. "The signs are about 10 to 20 feet before the crosswalk and cars can't possibly slow down in time if someone is in the crosswalk."

"I sat out there two weeks ago and watched what was going on," said 6th Ward Alderwoman Judy Whitaker. "The kids stay in the marked lines but drivers do not slow down."

SHE SUGGESTED to the council that a sign with a yellow flashing light be placed approximately a block before the crosswalk to increase the visibility of the caution sign.

Both alderwomen, who are members of the council's street and alley committee, have been concerned with the safety of the students who use the crosswalk.

"You can't replace a life," Whitaker said.

"I'm in favor of anything that would help the kids cross in the crosswalk," said Police Chief Bill Harris.

"I think there's a problem there," he said, "but it's better now than it was three months ago."

Presently there are four crosswalk signs: two northbound on Madison Avenue and two southbound, Harris said.

Oil prices, interest rates bolster real estate outlook

Falling imported oil prices, a declining dollar value, and lower long-term interest rates have combined to improve the economic outlook for the nation, according to the National Association of Realtors' most recent "outlook for the economy and real estate."

"These three factors have given the economy a boost," said Dr. Richard Peach, the association's vice president for forecasting and policy.

"Even though the underlying trend of a gradually weakening economy remains, the threat of a recession appears to have been pushed back several years."

Just one year ago, the spot price of oil in international markets was more than $28 per barrel," he said. "Because of a breakdown in OPEC's system of production quotas, that price is now below $15 per barrel."

"We'll see consumers spending less of their income on petroleum-derived products, leaving more of their income for buying other goods and services as well as saving."

"Lower oil prices also will reduce the forecast for inflation. With lower inflation, long-term interest rates should edge downward, stimulating residential and business investment."

"Less expensive oil will improve the profit picture for oil-consuming businesses, boosting stock and bond prices."

K mart will provide Easter baskets

Needy families in the Quad-City Area will be provided for by the K mart store located at 3655 Nameoki Road.

On Thursday, March 27, 10 families will receive food baskets from K mart for an Easter feast. The baskets will contain ham, potatoes, vegetables, bread and dessert.

Catholic Charities and Protestant Welfare will help identify needy families in the area.

"Our Thanksgiving and Christmas food basket program was very well received by the community," said K mart Manager Mike Stolze.

The local store is one of 2,100 K mart stores participating in this nationwide program.

Wissore sets goals for GC campus

By Bill Milligan
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — Emphasizing the importance of the Granite City Campus to the future of Belleville Area College, Chancellor Bruce Wissore proposed a 16-part program for improving GCC Wednesday night.

Wissore told BAC trustees to take stock in the management, personnel and facilities at the college's branch facility on Maryville Road.

Since the resignation of former president Don W. Kassing in February, Wissore has spent 19 days at GCC.

WISSORE WANTS to make an inventory of management and personnel strengths and establish maintenance priorities for the GCC campus.

Upgrading the GCC facility, beyond a recently announced $1 million repair project, is high among Wissore's goals, as is improving the quality of the curriculum.

"Industrial growth is coming to Granite City," Wissore said. "We want to be part of this growth period."

Wissore said he wants to expand the campus' educational and vocational offerings.

TO IMPROVE the curriculum, Wissore wants to add second-year classes in math, biology and chemistry. He feels students interested in four-year schools could complete the first two years' study at home with these curriculum additions.

"Our faculty needs to check the quality of everything we offer," Wissore said. "We need to pick a goal and have everyone from faculty to custodians working toward the goal."

Wissore said the goal should be total staff commitment to educational excellence.

Another goal is furnishing District 9 with an auto shop that enhances BAC and Granite City schools.

Wissore said he hopes to increase enrollment at GCC by placing guidance counselors in Quad City Area high schools.

GCC SHOULD work closely with the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce to train industrial workers should new plants open up, Wissore said.

Industrial training could increase the number of credit hours being taught at GCC by one-third, he told the trustees.

"We can provide training at a lower cost than anybody else," Wissore said.

HE SUGGESTED improved relations between the college and the communities it serves. He wants to enhance the link between Southern Illinois University and BAC's community college network.

Wissore hopes that link can provide immediate help in improving the library and increasing holdings at the GCC facility.

"When students feel like working, we want them to be in an environment that they can work in," Wissore said.

Trustees approved a $1 million repair project for the GCC campus March 19, but took no actions on the $1.1 million Wissore's recommendations.

Summer Youth jobs offered

Persons 16 to 25 can now apply for summer jobs through the state's Illinois Conservation Corps (ICC) program, according to State Rep. Sam Wolf, D-Granite City.

"Applications for persons 18 to 25 years old will be taken until March 31 for jobs at parks and conservation sites throughout the state," Wolf said. "Applications for a similar program for persons 16 to 18 are due by May 1."

"The ICC job program will consist of a wide variety of jobs, including park rehabilitation, wildlife habitat improvement, disaster relief and other conservation and natural resource management."

Wolf said the ICC will hire 88 young adults, ages 18 to 25, from April 16 through the end of July, and 615 youths, ages 16 to 18, from June 1 through Aug. 1.

"Workers will be paid $3.35 per hour for work at 84 sites across the state," Wolf said.

"Work sites in the immediate area include Horseshoe Lake State Park, Granite City (931-0270); Pere Marquette State Park, Grafton; and Holton State Park, East St. Louis."

Application forms and a list of other work sites may be obtained from the Illinois Conservation Corps office at 405 E. Washington St., Springfield, Ill. 62706, or by calling 1-217-782-1801, or going to the work site office nearest the applicant.

Assertiveness class Tuesday

The second segment of a two-part seminar on "Assertiveness on the Job" is scheduled at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 25, in Room 316 at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

The Granite City Business and Professional Women's club and the Granite City Campus are co-sponsoring the seminar. The initial session was held last week.

Information on the program may be obtained by calling Emylee Alford at 877-5598.

Q. How does a young person, just starting out, establish credit? Our daughter, will graduate from college soon and has already found a job as an assistant buyer by a large retail organization. She would certainly find credit useful inasmuch as her job will mean relocating away from home and setting up housekeeping for the first time.

A. Your daughter should not have any problems in establishing credit. She may already be well on her way if she has maintained a checking or savings account in her own name through college. These serve as a record of financial responsibility when applying for credit with local businesses. She may also want to apply for a charge card under any one of a number of programs which have been established specifically for college seniors and recent graduates. The fact that she has already obtained employment will also be beneficial. Many businesses and financial institutions will find this in her favor, while many employers will give a new employee a letter of reference.

Wissore adds administration of GCC to his daily routine

The roads most traveled by Belleville Area College Chancellor Bruce R. Wissore this month are between Granite City and Belleville.

Besides his role as chancellor of the three-campus system, he is now filling in as interim president of the Granite City Campus.

While he fills both jobs, the district is saving $60,000 annually by not hiring a replacement for former GCC President Don Kassing, who resigned to take a job in Colorado.

At GCC, the chancellor will review campus management, study campus goals in the community, and evaluate whether those goals are being met.

Last month Wissore recommended a $1 million repair program for the campus to be completed during the summer months. The BAC Board of Trustees was expected to act on that proposal this week.

At a board study session, he told trustees his goals for GCC include increasing enrollment, expanding the curriculum, promoting economic development in the Quad-City Area, offering training and retraining for area industries, promoting contact with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and promoting cultural exchange between this and other communities in the college district.

"Even if it were the purpose to replace the president as soon as possible there ought to be a month or two where I go in and just stand and look from that position and take stock," Wissore said earlier. "The length of that period of redirecting and the end result we'll know in a few months," he said.

He called GCC of "vital interest" to the district's future. "There was and still is a real equity problem throughout the district," Wissore said.

"Property owners from the northern and southern areas of the BAC district pay the same tax rate as the person living across the street from the Belleville campus, but nobody will say they get the same kind of services," he said.

"Before we opened up Granite (City Campus) in 1983 we were serving less than 10 percent of the high school graduates in Granite City and Chester and 35 to 40 percent right around Belleville.

"You don't have to be a genius to figure that inequity out. Distance was a problem — so the answer is, take the product to the people."

The three-campus district is one of 39 community college districts that cover the state.

BAC District 522 covers all or parts of eight counties, from Highland to Chester.

Law dictates that the district operate on an "open door" policy, offering courses for the transfer student intending to continue for a four-year degree, occupation training and retraining, basic education and community service.

Funding for the district comes from state and federal aid, tuition, local real estate taxes and miscellaneous sources.

Glasper, president of the Venice School Board.

GLASPER TOLD the committee a unique situation exists in the Venice and Madison school districts.

"A majority of kids going to school in Madison live in Venice and we in Venice are not recovering those taxes. We are already creating an open campus system by letting the kids go where they want to go to school."

"The bus stops everyday in Venice. What we need to talk about is what we want them to know when they get there (school)," Glasper said.

Committee member Sharon Sims from Alton asked, "All these statements tonight have been negative; is there anyone in favor of a merger?" No one in the audience responded.

At the insistence of some in the audience an informal straw vote was taken. Only four people raised their hands in favor of consolidation.

Rumor

what may take its place came up when Milton Morris, a Venice businessman, questioned a decision made at an earlier council meeting. That decision banned heavy trucks from using Third Street.

Truck drivers were using the residential street in order to park their rigs in the 1000 block, close to the restaurant on Broadway.

Deterioration of the roadway from truck traffic and danger to children living in the neighborhood were cited at the time of the complaints. Enforcement of a three-ton load limit on the street was then ordered.

CONCERNED about possible loss of a business in the community, Morris said many of the truckers previously eating at the restaurant are no longer doing so because of being unable to park nearby.

Only about three trucks can fit on the parking lot, he said, adding, "The Prairie Farm drivers don't go there anymore."

"She (the proprietor) has eight people working there and, if she goes out of business, they are out of jobs."

"I THINK WE SHOULD be doing things to attract businesses into the city, not things to make them leave," the businessman said.

"Stopping the trucks coming through the street was not to hurt her business but to protect the sanctity of the neighborhood," Echols responded.

"If we went there tomorrow and repaired the street, it wouldn't do any good with the trucks," he added.

POSSIBLE SALE of the Park Grill because of a loss of business figured in the rumors which were mentioned first by Morris.

Leona Voloski, owner of the restaurant, which has a reputation for good food, was contacted Thursday. She said she didn't know if Rofsky's had made an offer for the building.

"I've been here a long time and if I feel like selling to someone, they can't stop me. It is my business."

THEY WEREN'T concerned with me being put out of business by stopping the trucks," she told the Press-Record/Journal.

A woman at the council meeting said, "I'm all for better economic growth for our city, but do we have to have that element from Rofsky's area infiltrating into Venice with health clubs, spas and topless places?"

"What I'd like to know, Mayor Echols, if someone decides to close a tavern, what happens to its license then?" she asked.

"We can reduce the number of licenses (limited by ordinance) further if necessary," the mayor replied.

Merger move

of time," he added.

ANY CONSOLIDATION plan proposed by the committee must be submitted to the state by Sept. 30 and could only be approved if approved by referendum by both Madison and Venice voters, Briggs stressed.

Initial guidelines for district consolidation were based on minimum enrollment figures, with the Venice School District falling below the required student population level and the Madison district a borderline system.

The Education Reform Act passed by the state legislature in 1984 was amended March 4 to stress quality education, rather than numbers, Briggs said.

IT IS MANDATORY, however, that all high schools in Illinois meet State Board of Education requirements for a four-year curriculum.

Starting in 1990, a freshman student entering a state university, such as SIUE, must have had the required courses. The first students to be specifically affected by the reform act will be freshmen in high school this fall.

Krhnkai said the required courses at the high school level will include four years of English, emphasizing written and oral communications and literature; three years of social studies, emphasizing history and government.

THREE YEARS of mathematics (introductory through advanced algebra, geometry, trigonometry or fundamentals of computer programming); three years of sciences, including laboratory sciences; and two years of electives in foreign language, music or art.

Both the Venice and Madison high schools are in conformance with the State Board of Education requirements on paper, it was noted.

They are not going to argue quality until the state legislature defines quality," he said.

Among those testifying were Billie Beirworth, Madison School Board president, and Wilbert son, Tristan, Jordan Payne and Pam Walk.

Camp Du Bois replica planned

A replica of Camp Du Bois, the site where Lewis and Clark wintered before their historic trek to the Northwest, would be built under a plan advanced by the Lewis and Clark Society. It is on Illinois 3 here, at the Hagford (Cahokia) Canal.

A petition bearing at least 1,000 names, urging state funding, was presented to Gov. James Thompson last week when he was in this area, according to Lucille Rich, president of the society.

Virginia Morgan, a board member of the society, said the late restaurant Clarence Decker left $100,000 for building the replica on condition the state matches the amount.

The state has until Oct. 4 this year to come up with the money, or the Decker funds will revert to Decker's estate.

Morgan said the governor offered some encouragement that funding was possible. She presented petitions to an aide, and the governor said to keep in contact about the plan.

3 Warriors on All-Area Wrestling Team

98 POUNDS
JASON STORNER, BELLEVILLE EAST: A junior, Storner had a 32-7 record with 23 six-point decisions and 11 pins. He scored 217 team points and allowed only 33.

BRENT DAVIS, GRANITE CITY: Davis came out of nowhere in his freshman year to post a 31-5 record and win a regional championship. He was one of 10 Warriors to advance to the sectional, but lost to Andy Gardner.

105 POUNDS
LEE GARTH, EAST ST. LOUIS: The senior had a 22-4 record and won the Urbana, Carbondale and Southwestern Conference tournaments and the regional. He went to state as a junior, but missed out this season when he lost in the sectional.

AARON DUGAN, BETHALTO: Dugan is only a freshman, but his future looks bright. He just missed qualifying for the state meet, losing by technical fall in the third-place bout of the sectional. He took a 32-7 record into the regional and was a Mississippi Valley Conference and regional champion.

112 POUNDS
DAVE BOECKMANN, O'FALLON: Boeckmann, a senior, closed out his high school wrestling career with a 31-10 record and a trip to the state meet at Champaign. Boeckmann recorded 17 pins and led O'Fallon in takedowns, three-point nearfalls and reversals. He scored a team-high 306 points.

JIM ARENDELL, BELLEVILLE EAST: A junior, Arendell won 37 matches — third-best in school history — and lost only four. He had 13 six-point decisions and was 30 in East's dual-meet competition at the state tournament.

119 POUNDS
JOHN SUESS, TRIAD: Suess ended a superb career with a 113-24 record, including a 24-2 record this season. He is the winningest wrestler in Triad history.

JACK EDGAR, ALTHOFF: One of the Crusaders' most improved wrestlers, Edgar finished his senior season with a 24-9 record, including 13 pins. In the regional and sectional, he beat three wrestlers he had lost to earlier in the year.

126 POUNDS
ERIC ROBERSON, ROXANA: Hard work and dedication paid off for the junior, who wrestled at both 132 and 126 this season. Roberson was unbeaten going into the state finals, but knocked out there and finished with a 39-2 record. It was his second trip to the finals, having gone in his freshman season at 98 pounds.

BRYANT CLARK, CAHOKIA: A junior, Clark had a 39-9 record. He placed first at Mascoutah, second at Granite City, third at Quincy, first in the regional and third in the sectional.

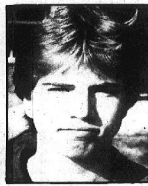

132 POUNDS
SCOTT SCHMELZEL, BELLEVILLE EAST: The senior co-captain had a 33-7 record, with 22 six-point decisions. A state individual qualifier, he scored 221 team points with only 23 scored against him.

THAD SUMMERS, EDWARDSVILLE: A three-sport (wrestling, cross-country and track) star at Edwardsville, Summers had a 33-5-1 record this season and won the Bethalto and Carbondale tournaments and the Edwardsville regional. He's No. 1 on the Tigers' career victory list with a 94-43-3 record.

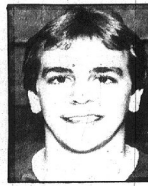

138 POUNDS
STEVE KNOEBEL, BELLEVILLE EAST: Knobel won a school-record 42 matches while losing five and tying one. The senior captain placed sixth at the state tournament and won five matches overall. His 249 team points were also an East record.

STEVE VOGT, COLLINSVILLE: After winning only 10 matches as a sophomore, Vogt completed his junior season with a 31-8-1 record and a trip to the state tournament. He had 11 pins.

Sparks, a senior, made a remarkable recovery from a broken ankle suffered in midseason to post an 18-5 record and earn a trip to the state finals in Champaign. "Tommy showed a lot of heart," said Coach Walt Whitaker. "We had to tape his ankle the first couple of times, but he was at full strength at the end of the year."

DAVID MONTGOMERY, CAHOKIA: Montgomery, a senior, had a 33-9 record. He placed third at Mascoutah, first at Granite City, first at the regional and fourth at the sectional.

155 POUNDS
MIKE FENOGLIO, GRANITE CITY:

The biggest winner on the Warrior team with a mark of 35-6, Fenoglio advanced to the state finals, where he was defeated in the first round.

ERIC NICHOLS, BETHALTO: Nichols battled injuries throughout the season and, like three of his Eagle teammates, just missed going to state. He finished first in the Mississippi Valley Conference, second in the regional and fourth in the sectional.

167 POUNDS
CHRIS LINDSAY, MASCOUTAH: Lindsay, a senior, was the top wrestler in the area. He was undefeated heading into the state wrestling meet at Champaign, where he dropped two matches to finish his brilliant season with a 37-2 record.

185 POUNDS
GENE GOREE, CAHOKIA: Goree

finished his senior season with a 36-2 record and a trip to the state tournament, where he narrowly missed placing. He also placed third at Mascoutah, first at Granite City, second at Quincy, first at the regional and second at the sectional.

HEAVYWEIGHT
KEN SHIELDS, ALTHOFF: A junior, Shields had a 29-6 record with 24 pins. He was 1-1 at the state tournament.

"He's as consistent a heavy-weight as I've ever coached," said Coach Bill Hart.

BOB DAVIS, BETHALTO: One of the lighter heavyweights around (about 205 pounds), Davis used his quickness and strength to earn a berth in the state finals. He was a regional and conference champion and finished first at Civic Memorial and Mascoutah. He was 34-3 going into the state meet.

'Spring' weather taking its toll

Maybe high school baseball teams should imitate the pros in at least one way.

If they insist on playing games in the month of March, they might have better luck in Florida or Arizona.

As is not unusual for this time of year, baseball games and track meets scheduled for Thursday and Friday were postponed because of the cold weather.

The Madison boys track meet scheduled for Thursday at Highland was cancelled with no makeup date announced. The Trojans also had two baseball games postponed by the sub-freezing weather. The season opener against East St. Louis, scheduled for Thursday at home, has been rescheduled for this Thursday, March 27, at home at 4 p.m. And Friday's game at Roxana has been rescheduled for Wednesday at 4 p.m.

The Granite City girls track meet versus Belleville West, scheduled for Thursday afternoon, was also postponed until Saturday.

Schedule

Monday, March 24
BASEBALL: Granite City at Roxana..... 4 p.m.
TRACK: St. Paul, Breese Central & Lebanon at Madison (boys & girls)..... 3:30 p.m.

Tuesday, March 25
TRACK: Triad & Cahokia at Madison (boys & girls)..... 3:30 p.m.

Wednesday, March 26
BASEBALL: Wood River at Granite City..... 4 p.m.
Madison at Roxana..... 4 p.m.
